WESTERN HILL CEMETARY LOOKOUT

Gates open at 8:00am and close at sunset. Toilets open 8:00am to sunset.

Detour of the cycle pathway on Prebensen Drive, into Orotu Park, turn right into Clyde Jeffery Drive, look for the brown palings on either side of the gate way on your left, this is the drive way into Napier's newest, cemetery - Western Hills, opened in 1985. Note as you climb the hill the rock wall which has heaps of sea shells embedded into the rock. Once at the top of the hill continue cycling until the road ends, The northern crest, topped by a trig point, offers extensive views of farmland and the suburbs of Napier. Before the earthquake of 3 February, 1931, this low-lying expanse was covered by the waters and mudflats of the great Ahuriri Lagoon. The cemetery's sweeping lawns were formerly orchards, paddocks and vegetable gardens.

The other road to your left takes you into Park Island Cemetery to view the Memorial for 143 people who lost their lives in the 1931 earthquake

ANDERSON PARK: The city's largest passive recreation park was once the home of the Napier Park Racing Club, formed at Greenmeadows in 1886. Racing ceased here in about 1960 when the club moved to Hastings for race days. The Council acquired the old racecourse site in 1962 under the Public Works Act. Development work got underway in 1966 with the formation of over two hectares of waterways. Tree planting and ground formation work was done to improve surface drainage and create an interesting landscape on an otherwise flat site. Before the 1931 earthquake, several saltwater creeks crossed the park area, leaving a legacy of salt-laden soils. That, in turn, has influenced the choice of trees and helped determined where they should be planted.

The children's play area was developed jointly with the Napier Lions Club, and parking areas were created at key points. A $40,000 bequest from the late Haskell Anderson was a considerable help in developing the park. In particular, the funds have seen the establishment of as wide a selection of trees as possible. Combined pedestrian and cycle paths created in 1980 have greatly boosted the public's use and enjoyment of the park.

Refer map for concrete cycling pathways, the children's playground is directly below the green sign on the map (Anderson Park) you can see the concrete for skateboarding. Toilets' are to the left of the playground
